C and E PERMALUX

America's finest living room furniture!

The old expression regarding upholstered furniture: "Everything is under the cover" does not apply to PERMALUX living room furniture. You will notice there is no covering on the bottom of the base spring unit on PERMALUX furniture. There are two reasons for this. First: it is easy to dust and clean. Secondly: we want you to see this finer construction! Yes, here is the base spring unit that has made PERMALUX famous as America's finest living room furniture!

WHY THE BASE SPRING UNIT IS ALL IMPORTANT TO THE COMFORT AND LIFE OF LIVING ROOM FURNITURE

The base spring unit on any living room furniture is the heart of the entire construction. This unit carries the entire weight of anyone sitting or reclining on the furniture. If these springs break, sag or sway then your entire piece becomes lumpy, unsightly and uncomfortable. That is why PERMALUX living room furniture that has been used for many years still has that new, firm appearance and is as comfortable as the day it was bought. There is no possibility of the base spring unit in PERMALUX sagging, twisting, or breaking!

Here are a pair of chairs that should be sold as a set. Frames are of Solid Oak and the no-sag spring seats are protected with permalators and well padded with rubberized hair and cotton felt. The extremely high back chair is big enough for any man and while the low back is primarily a lady's chair, is surprisingly comfortable for men or women, especially for reading, TV viewing, or just plain sittin'.

The legs on the high back rocker are of the screw-in type so that they won't break during shipment. The metal inserts in the arms are solid brass. The brass ferrules with tilting floor protectors have the plastic where the chair sits on the carpet or linoleum and won't discolor in damp weather. The base of the smaller chair is packed in the seat to eliminate freight damage, but easy for the dealer to assemble.

Both of these rockers are equipped with ADJUSTO-SWIVEL that are guaranteed for the life of the rocker. Each swivel is equipped with a compensator nut that allows the tension to be changed according to the customer's desire and will carry a tag to this effect.

The tweed pattern frieze fabric is a combination of Nylon Viscose Carpet Yarn and Acetate with Lurex and the chairs will carry a Nylon label. The plastic is elastic supported back soft kid finish that gives the appearance of being leather.

The Deluxe Line

25 INCH APPLIANCE DEPTH BASES WITH PLASTIC TOPS, AND MATCHING WALL CABINETS

The simplicity of line and tasteful proportion of these Base and Wall cabinets bring to the homemaker, for the first time, a selection of pieces with the beauty of expensive "built-in" kitchens. And their uses are not confined to the kitchen alone. They blend with appliance styles in the utility room. They make sense, too, as practical storage space for toys, for refreshment space in the recreation room. And the bases offer additional work-top surface . . . of high-pressure laminated plastic . . . in pleasing gray and white pattern.

Picture-Frame Styling is both beautiful and practical. Doors swing on concealed hinges, opening to 180 degrees, and close on magnetic catches. The Bases and Wall cabinets can be set together to form attractive multiple units. Chrome trim and graceful handles, black kick plate.

All 20 inch high Wall cabinets and Bases have two shelf spaces. Wall cabinets of 30 inch height have three shelf spaces. See illustration for all dimension details.

RULES FOR THE DESIGNATION OF FURNITURE WOODS

Recommended by the Federal Trade Commission for adoption by the furniture industry and endorsed by leading manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers.

1. Furniture in which exposed surfaces are of one wood shall be designated by the name of the wood.
2. Furniture in which the exposed surfaces are of more than one kind of wood shall be designated by the names of the principal woods used.

INTERPRETATION OF RULES:

1. Exposed surfaces mean those parts of a piece of furniture which are exposed to view when the piece is placed in the generally accepted position for use.
2. The exposed surfaces of all furniture or parts thereof represented as solid shall be solid wood of the kind or kinds designated. If veneered on the same wood, it may be designated as a wood of that particular kind. If veneered on a different wood it shall be described as veneered.
3. Cabinet woods, used for decorative purposes where the effect is solely to add to the artistic value, shall be named as decorations only.
4. A wood popularly regarded as of lesser value if its use is essential to construction, need not be named under Rule 2, if less than a substantial amount is used on exposed surfaces.
5. A wood popularly regarded as of higher value shall not be named under Rule 2, if an insubstantial amount of that wood is used, except as provided in Interpretation 3, above.
6. Designations shall be made in the caption or body of each particular description without qualification elsewhere.
7. The word "finish" to designate color shall only be used as a description, following the name of the wood used.

Description of Comparative Quality of Goods Illustrated

In order to classify the goods we sell, so that customers may have an understanding of the difference in quality of material, construction and finish, we have adopted three grade classifications.

Goods which are, in our opinion, of only fair or low grade quality will be unclassified.

Weights Given in Catalog Are Shipping Weights and Are Approximately Correct

I. X. L. Grade—Our Highest Quality

Ideal Grade—Excellent Quality

Sterling Grade—Good Medium Quality

I. X. L. GRADE—Our Highest Quality

Lines which we describe as in this grade are made by manufacturers whose product is recognized as being foremost in quality. They are beautifully designed by the leading designers in the furniture industry; the finest selection of seasoned woods is used in their manufacture; expert workmen only are employed in their construction; all materials used are of the highest class and they are fitted and finished in every detail to satisfy a most critical standard. Every step in their production is inspected against imperfections.

IDEAL GRADE—Excellent Quality

Furniture to which we apply this grade of classification is made of selected well seasoned woods and standard good grade materials. It is excellently finished, artistically designed and carefully constructed to give long years of satisfactory service.

STERLING GRADE—Good Medium Quality

Every detail needed to add value or to give service is found in its construction. The lines listed in this grade are made of sound, seasoned woods and dependable materials; they are honestly constructed to stand the wear of actual service and are of a good medium quality of material, manufacture and finish, with unessential details and refinements of construction elminated.

Today's finishes are developed to both beautify and bring out the wonderful variations in wood. The natural characteristics of wood are emphasized to give each piece a "personality." Nature's wonders such as Burls, Grains, Mineral Areas where a tree root has grown through a mineral deposit—will be evident, not covered up as in years gone by.

Since nature creates but never duplicates, no two trees or parts of a single tree are identical. Cabinet woods and the highest quality finishes tend to mellow with age. It is a part of the beauty of quality furniture therefore that it blends without identically matching. Good quality paste or cream wax should be used, oil polishes should be avoided.

The Individuality of Wood...

In building and finishing our furniture, we try to preserve the natural characteristics of the woods used.

Trees, and wood from trees, have a wide variety of grains and markings.

No attempt is made to match these characteristics on the various parts of the piece or between pieces in the group.

It then is to be expected that a difference in shade or color will be noted on the same piece or between pieces, as woods with different characteristics respond individually to finishes. This distinguishes it from cheaper hardwood.

We have tried to select beautiful and interesting woods and preserve them for you.

The Lincoln House Collection

Occasional Pieces of Hard Rock Maple

Designs reproduced from Colonial favorites. The beautiful Salem Maple finish is achieved by repeated polishing and rubbing to bring out the natural beauty of the maple grain.

The Individuality of Wood...

In building and finishing our furniture, we try to preserve the natural characteristics of the woods used.

Trees, and wood from trees, have a wide variety of grains and markings.

No attempt is made to match these characteristics on the various parts of the piece or between pieces in the group.

It then is to be expected that a difference in shade or color will be noted on the same piece or between pieces, as woods with different characteristics respond individually to finishes. This distinguishes it from cheaper hardwood.

We have tried to select beautiful and interesting woods and preserve them for you.
